Animal Nutrition

C&H Nutrition is a UFAS approved trading partner supplying the livestock and companion animal sectors of the UK and Ireland since 1989. The business is recognised as a leading supplier of quality raw materials for compound feed and feed supplement manufacture and also markets products for use on-farm.

C&H Nutrition brings to the animal nutrition and associated animal health/hygiene sectors a highly specialised mix of skills and capabilities together with a deep understanding of the unique pressures faced by the farming industry and the supply chain serving it.

Pursuing an active growth strategy, the business constantly seeks new products to expand its portfolio offer, serving the dairy, beef, poultry, pig and sheep livestock sectors. More recently C&H Nutrition has also developed offers for the pet and equine sectors, both of which present further opportunities for growth.

Comprehensive product range

C&H Nutrition offers feed producers, manufacturers of supplements and premixes and integrated operators a broad portfolio of speciality and commodity products. This includes feed additives, specialist vitamin and mineral supplements and feed processing aids. In addition a range of on-farm products are supplied through the agricultural merchant trade.

Efficient and reliable

C&H Nutrition provides customers with a portfolio of products sourced from respected global suppliers in the UK, Continental Europe, USA and the Far East. We are constantly sourcing new and innovative products to help farmers and their suppliers feed and rear healthier livestock as cost effectively as possible.

C&H Nutrition also offers an efficient and reliable distribution service. Our customer service team provides a tailored response to meet the varied requirements of each of our customer segments. Combined with the highest standards of customer service, our sales and marketing expertise, market knowledge and technical support underpin the C&H Nutrition offer.

Setting the standard

A clear emphasis on customer service is embedded in the Chance & Hunt culture and feedback from customers consistently places a high value on this.

Customer service standards focus on delivery, responsiveness, sample despatch and query management. Service levels are continually monitored and targets are agreed and reviewed regularly. Performance improvement is fostered across the whole business, within each section, with partner organisations and for each individual member of our staff.

Chance & Hunt operates a Quality Management System to ensure a 'right first time' approach and to improve levels of service. The business consistently conforms to all relevant industry standards including safety, health, environmental and legal requirements. Chance & Hunt is registered to ISO 9000:2000.

In addition, Chance & Hunt, through the British Chemical Distributors and Traders Association (BCDTA), is fully committed to the Responsible Care® programme, which has been developed by the chemical industry jointly in 47 countries around the world. This commitment requires members to continually improve their Health, Safety and Environmental performance, and active Product Stewardship plays a major role in our ongoing ability to deliver these objectives.
